We will go on a 2-part journey to discover the life skills and protective factors which positively influence children's ability to cope, and we will become able to recognise resilient characteristics.

We investigate environments and programs which promote resilience, empower, nurture and strengthen children to value themselves, their abilities and those with whom they have contact.

Strategies and planning techniques which foster resilience are explored in the first week and then reflected on in the second week to provide the children in your care with the opportunity to learn, develop and practise these very important lifelong skills.

The learning material will be presented at an introductory level and will be targeted towards children's services professionals working with children between the ages of 0-5 and 7-12 years.

WITH DONNA FARMAN

Donna Farman has worked in many capacities within the early childhood field for the past 18 years. She has a passion for the development of social and emotional well being of children and believes the foundations for healthy, happy and well adjusted individuals are formed within these formative years.

Her passion for building resilient children has grown recently as she facilitates programs to promote life skills and strategies for children to think positively about themselves and others and to be able to cope with life's ups and downs. She is passionate about building awareness of how our practices as educators of children can have a positive influence on the acquired skills, mindsets and abilities in the futures of the children in our care.
